Usually kids could sit quietly in class. However, Tyler was just loud. One day,Tyler was talking while I was teaching. I said to him, "Tyler, why not join in our discussion instead of having one of your own?"He got up from his chair, pushed it over, and shouted something. I sent him to theoffice and he received a week's out-of-school punishment.

The week was a wonderful time for me, but when it was over, I began to feel worried. So I came up with a plan. On the day of his return, I told him if he felt like he was going to lose control in class, he could step outside the door for a moment.

From then on, Tyler was a changed in my class. In fact he was smart and he even stopped a fight between two students one day. He never left the class for a moment.I believe that just having the privilege（特权）to decide for himself changed him.

But these days parents and teachers have accepted that. Now left-handed students can use their left hand to write.

Many researchers think that left-handed and right-handed people are somehow different. Right-handed people are more talkative(健谈) and outgoing（外向）. They are good at organizing people, too.

Research shows that left-handed people are creative and artistic. Many famous artists are left-handed, like Beethoven(贝多芬).Many left-handed people learn better visually (在视觉方面) . They are also good at single sports.
